

Giving Children the Skills they Need to Prosper

Parents Can Teach Kids to Gain Prosperity, Confidence, and Abundance

(MICHIGAN) Self-confidence is one of the most important attributes for children to develop while they are growing up. In order for children to become successful adults, their parents must teach them how to develop prosperity, confidence and abundance. In Think Your Way to Riches Kids' Style (Morgan James Publishing, December, 2006), Carrie Carter gives parents the resources they need to create the future they desire.

Based on the principles of Ted Ciuba's Think and Grow Rich, this workbook shows parents how easy having anything they want truly is. Presented in a fun and easy to understand style, Think Your Way to Riches Kids' Style is guaranteed to captivate families in pursuit of attaining better lives for themselves.

"We do manifest our own futures," Carter says. "So let's teach ourselves and our children to create a world of abundance, happiness and world peace."

The interactive workbook features pages where children can draw their dreams, channel their good and bad feelings and write on "my special wish paper." Online resources such as audio lessons, a discussion forum and monthly questionnaires are available on the book's website: www.ThinkYourWaytoRichesKidsStyle.com.

Think Your Way to Riches Kids' Style* discusses:

- Why children are to be seen and heard as the world has much to learn from them
- How parents can give children a head start to manifest their dreams, even manifesting their own dreams in the process
- Why no child should have to fail in life
